

How to calculate the notice period for the purposes of overtime

In assessing the number of days' notice given, the day after the officer is made aware of the change in the roster counts as the first day. The day, which was to have been a rest day, will not be included in the total.